IX. New Business

This semester has been insanely frustrating with getting people involved in things such as horseback riding, hiking, etc. What can we do for club apathy? There's always a proportion of students who want to be there, which is always more than the ones that do not want to be there. Tom Krieglstein Dance Floor Theory. As much as we put information out about events, students somehow claim to not know. SFF getting a new and better blue screen, or a moving billboard. Podcasts can also help. Flyers do not work. Word of mouth is the best advertising. Radio Club announcements also work. Talk to everyone about your club/org. You can never talk to people too much. It's easier for people to remember a face and conversation than a piece of paper. CB student population is the people. You do not have to join the club to participate. Alison- commitment to a club is important, meeting times are difficult. Our students work a lot, so it is hard. Survey on how to communicate the ideas the best may be beneficial. I was antisocial, now if Ryan is going, I will probably be going! We need to work on changing the image of our campus. Dash- We need a larger population. We also need to focus on getting more students involved. Friendly faces to welcome students is important. Matt- College day, did not see PSUWB. Do we go to high schools in the area?
